

[THE 2017 STYLE GUIDE]

Tablescapes

WITH Erin
Weston

THE CONNOISSEUR DINNER SERIES

Erin Weston, Founder of Weston Farms, works from a diverse palette influenced by the rich heritage of The South. She playfully incorporates horticultural elements grown on her Southern Magnolia farm in Garner, North Carolina. She is inspired by and utilizes fabrics and trims from other artists.

Steve McKenzie fabric makes stunning runners, napkins or tablecloths—the playful loops give a modern look to traditional design. Loop pattern in walnut on white flax, stevemckenzie.com

“Bringing together an eclectic mix of designers and botanical elements is like mixing fascinating people at a dinner party. I love pairing surprising elements on my tablescapes.”
—Erin Weston

In addition to being a delicious southern staple, dried okra is an indispensable go-to design element for sculptural interest on the table.

Wreaths make great centerpieces for round tables. 36" Brown Velvet Wreath, westonfarms.com

2016's Powerful & Delicious dinner featured Weston Farm's exclusive Swan Stage Magnolia Buds.

Whimsical topiaries make great gifts for your guests at the end of a meal. Custom tabletop topiaries, westonfarms.com

Cotton and Quill trims make lovely table elements and can be used as surprising napkin rings. Custom Trim, cottonquill.com